'Participation' as a tool for experience:
Re-thinking inactive industrial buildings

Assoc. Prof. Fatma Erkok

Res. Assist. Ecem Kara

-Discovering characteristically industrial areas which remained inactive in the urban tissue of Istanbul, and re-configuring them within new life scenarios

-Re- arranging the existing urban equipment, in order to provide participation of the human body into urban life in public space

-Researching new technologies to trigger new experiences to authenticate innovative and performative human body and genuine life scenarios, which would integrate with the surrounding urban tissue

-Using architecture as a "speculative" tool to search the possibilities for these aims.
