

ITU faculty of architecture
2016-17 fall, architectural design studio V

nurbin paker, assoc. prof. dr.
hicret aydoğan, res. ass.

adaptogenesis*

*Adaptogenesis defines a complex environment that continues to evolve through adaptation.

Adaptogenesis is a discipline that helps observe and analyse living things' behavior strategy facing environmental change. An example of this notion of adaptogenesis, the main studio aim is to search for a design with nothing extraneous today and nothing extraneous to be tomorrow via building program such as fire station, education or transportation etc.